A Stampede!

A horse attached to a small carriage ran off from the direction of the Capitol, at 11 o'clock to-day. At 3d street, he ran into the one-horse carriage of Mr. Carlisle, which he smashed somewhat, and slightly injured the colored driver. He was then stopped, we believe; but Mr. Carlisle's horse started off, and soon ran into Dennis Smallwood's back, when he become detached from his battered vehicle, and made his way with speed to his own stable. But 'Smallwood's horses were now off, and soon ran into George Carter's one-horse vehicle. Mr. Carter's horse taking fright, started off in company with them, Smallwood's horses in front; but Carter's vehicle soon came afoul of Semmes's dray, injuring his horse, and so frightening him that he promptly joined in the chase. Smallwood's hack brought up by upsetting on the curbstone in front of Jackson's grocery, completely demolished. Carter's carriage, in the rear, was caught by a tree in front of Wheeler's hardware store, where his race ceased, the horse and vehicle in bad plight. Semmes's dray came to a halt by running into John Rilev's hack, in front of the National Hotel, John Riley's hack, in front of the National Hotel, so long as the same shall be published by order which it somewhat injured—one of the drayshafts being also broke. And here the race ended, as does our story of the equestrian adventures of five minutes' time.

· Baltimore Excursion to Old Point.

The American states that the steamer North Carolina returned to that city vesterday morning from her excursion trip to Old Point Comfort, for which place she left on Saturday evening, having on board his honor, Mayor Jerome, the members of the city council, and other distinguished citizens, as invited guests. The trip down the bay on Saturday night they represent as being delightful, and after arriving at Point Comfort they were provided by the steamboat company with comfortable quarters at the "Hygeia Hotel," where they found, besides a great many Baltimoreans, Gen. Scott, Senator Fish, of New York, and a number of other distinguished gentlemen.

Mayor Jerome and the city council received a visit from Gen. Scott, on Monday afternoon, at their quarters, and passed an hour or more in his company very agreeably. When about to take his leave, Gen. Scott invited the Mayor to spend the remainder of the afternoon with him at his own quarters, but his honor was compelled to decline the invitation on account of an attack of illness from which he was suffering. The company speak in high terms of the hospitality of Gen. Scott, and also of Senator Fish, of New York, both of whom endeavored to render the visits of the Baltimoreans as agrecable as possi-

We are not of those who think that promptness in bragging and blustering is sure evidence of patriotism or courage. Our rights must be maintained; but a patient examination of controverted cases generally exhibits rights on both sides. That the American people or the present administration will prove either timid or regard less of their true interests and honor, is an absurdity credited by no candid and intelligent man. Let us keep cool and quiet about the matter, relying upon a wise administration and a

The Fishery Question.

The New Brunswicker of Saturday says that the American Secretary of State labors under a mistake when he gives the impression that her Majesty's government are about to enforce the convention of 1818, strictly according to the opinion of the law officers. The News believes this will not be the case. It says that the understanding has existed for some years past that the Americans should only be excluded from bays and inlets less than six miles wide. This, the News thinks, would be sufficient. All the St. Johns papers coincide in the opinion that Brother Jonathan, with an eye to the main chance to save the fishing interest from ruin, will give the provinces reciprocal free trade as a settlement. The papers make no further mention of seizures, and do not give the particulars of the seizure of the Lubec schooner.

A Stupendous Undertaking!

We perceive that the Democrats of this city are busily engaged in the circulation of a series of tracts called "Papers for the People," in the RISON should be selected as the instrument, when first of which it is undertaken to prove that Gen. Scott is no hero, fought no victorious battles, was a coward, an imbecile, and all that. If been done by the gallant Whigs of Ohio. Gen. Scott had undertaken to conquer Vera Cruz by undermining the city and leading his army up into its centre to fight hand to hand with its inhabitants, he would have acted as wisely as has the knave or jackanape who has written this pamphlet!

A gentleman from Old Point Comfort assures us that General Scott appears to recuperate finely under the influence of the sea-air and the baths of that delightful place; that he is in the very midst of every social throng, participating in their recreation and enjoyment, and apparently forgetful of the bureau duties over which his brows are so constantly knitted, prevailed among the American population of the political excitement of the times, and the New Mexico. defamation of his good name which is daily sent forth by the ribald press of the opposing party. to have failed.

The Congressional Globe.

On Monday last, the following was offered in the House of Representatives by Mr. OLDS: JOINT RESOLUTION providing for the distribution of the laws of Congress and the debates thereon.

With a view to the cheap circulation of the laws true interpretation thereof, and to make free the communication between the representative and constituent bodies:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the present session of Congress, the Congressional Globe and Appendix, which contain the laws and the debates thereon, shall pass free through the mails, be construed to authorize the circulation of the Daily Globe free of postage.

Whether Mr. Rives is to profit by this privilege or not, we do not care to inquire. We think it certain that the American people will, and therefore hope the resolution may prevail.

The proceedings and debates of Congress should by all possible means be circulated throughout the country. They are too voluminous for the columns of miscellaneous journals, and their publication through these is neither uniform nor certain. The Congressional Globe and Appendix is an accurate, expeditious, cheap, and convenient form in which to present these matters to the public; and few persons who receive it will therefore fail to subscribe for such party journal, or review, as they may prefer.

We believe this arrangement will prove beneficial to the party press, in relieving their columns of such cumbrous matters, and by purifying presumed that others will be erected in order to them by the removal of temptation in the form of

As soon as this resolution shall be carried into effect, the circulation of the Globe will be greatly promoted and the profits of the publishers ennanced; but in a very brief time the competition for the business now in the hands of Mr. Rives will compel him to reduce his terms to the lowest possible mark, and the public will thus in the long run derive all the advantages from the

A word fitly spoken by the bonnie Buckeye State.

It is a source of gratification to observe that the Whigs of the noble State of Ohio have placed upon their ticket for Presidential electors the name of J. ## The Lundy's Lane Celebration!

The following despatches of course give but a faint outline of the great Whig demonstration at Niagara. The enthusiasm appears to be intense, and the congregation unprecedented:

NIAGABA FALLS, July 26, 10 a. m. The Committee of Arrangements have appointed Gen. P. Whitney, who served with Scott at Queenstown, Chief Marshal. The principal orators for the occasion are Secretary Corwin, Gov. Jones, of Tennessee, Senator Mangum, Cul-lum, of Tennessee, and Foot, of Vermont. The grove selected for the celebration is in the immediate vicinity of the Falls. Those set apart for the encampment are on the eastern skirts of the town, about a hundred rods from the cataract.

July 27, 9 a. m.—The town was filled to repletion at an early hour last evening, and many were unable to obtain sleeping places. This morning tens of thousands more have poured in from all quarters, including the Cleveland Artilery, the Detroit Guards, the Cerro Gordo Guards, from Kentucky, and the Artillery of the Fourth Kentucky Volunteers. The military—making some twenty companies now on the ground-have encamped, and are consequently well provided for. There will be an immense military display to-morrow at the grand review, as the number is increasing every hour.

The weather this morning is bright, beautiful, and cool, but our streets are thronged almost to suffocation. Delegations are marching in from all quarters, and being received by the Commit-tee of Arrangements. The delegations from Ohio and Pennsylvania are very numerous and large, nearly every city and county in these two States being represented, and they profess to be most sanguine of giving their electoral votes to General Scott.

The Committee of Arrangements announce that delegates have reported themselves from nearly every State in the Union. There are an immense number of clubs also present, among which I notice the banners of "the Soup Boy of Ohio," the "Scott Civil Guards of Pennsylvania," and a great number of New York clubs, f Congress and the debates contributing to the among them "the Whig Young Men of New York City. The Maryland delegation have formed in line, numbering over 300 men, and make a fine appearance.

A delegation of Tuscarora Indians, with several old warriors who fought under General Scott at Lundy's Lane, attract great attention.

Among the distinguished gentlemen already ar rived. I notice Gov. Johnson, of Pennsylvania; Judge Jessup, of Pennsylvania; Judge Mason and Hon. John C. Wright, of Ohio; Col. John Williams, of Kentucky; and Gov. Hunt, of New York. The Hon. Thomas Ewing is expected in the next train. Secretary Corwin left yesterday for Montreal, on account of ill-health.

A large number of spectators from the Cana dian side are flocking over to witness this grand political jubilee of their Yankee brethren, as well as the celebration of a great American victory over the flower of England's troops.

1 p. m .- The whole of this morning was de devoted to the reception of delegates, who continued to flock in from all quarters. At noon a national salute was fired, immediately after which the procession was formed, Gen. P. Whitney acting as chief marshal. The line is now moving through the principal streets of the city on its way to Ferry Grove, a point selected in the vicinity of the cataract for the celebration. The procession is an immense affair and the military display is truly fine.

3 p. m.—The procession has just reached the ground, and is now being organized. Six separate stands are erected for the speakers, and it is accommodate the assemblage. The number of speakers present is very large, especially from Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New York. The convention will adjourn at 5 o'clock and meet again at 7 o'clock, when speaking will be continued until a late hour.

The most attractive and interesting part of the celebration will take place to-morrow. At sun-rise a national salute will be fired; at 9 o'clock a review of the military by Gov. Hunt will take place on the eastern skirts of the town, about 100 yards from the cataract, in the vicinity of which the military are encamped. After the review, which will occupy most of the morning, the people will assemble in the grove, where they will be addressed until 3 p. m. by Gov. Jones, of Tennessee, Senator Mangum, of North Carolina, Gen. Cullum, of Tennessee, and Hon. Solomon Foot, of Vermont. The celebration will then close, and the convention adjourn sine die.

The prospect of obtaining accommodations for so many persons is very poor, and large numbers will scarcely be sufficient to accommodate them.

We believe a public meeting is to be held on the subject to-night.

The Richmond Murder.

Our readers are familiar with the history of the nurder of Mrs. Winston and her child, at Richmond, eight or ten days since. The following is the confession of the negro woman Jane, the house servant, by whom the deed was perpetrated, made to Mr. Starke, the jailor:

"A little before daybreak, and in advance of her usual hour of rising, she rose without disturbing her husband, procured the broad-edged hatchet, entered the house, proceeded to Mr. Winston's room, and commenced her fiendish labors by knocking Mr. Winston senseless. He scarcely struggled. On leaving him, she stepped around the bed, and commenced cutting into the head of Mrs. Winston. Mrs. W.'s struggles were so great, that Jane says she inflicted stronger and more frequent blows upon her head than she did upon Mr. W.'s, in order to silence her quickly. She then killed the infant, washed off the blood, and laid it in the cradle. She then washed the blood off the hatchet, hid it, and gave the alarm. Jane further stated that she considered that she had been ill-treated by Mr. and Mrs. Winston, and had been brooding over her bloody revenge for some time. The devil, she stated, had such possession of her that morning that she believed that she could have went further than she did, if necessary. She denies stealing the watch and clothing.

Mr. Winston, it is now believed, will recover. His mind, although occasionally wandering, is almost restored. The Dispatch says:

"He remembers the events of Sunday-the preparations he made for his departure North on Monday morning, the packing of his trunk, the depositing of his money in secure places where it was found, and the amounts so deposited. He was restless, he says, and did not go to sleep until very late; he heard the clock strike one, he says, and then got to sleep, but says he must have slept very sound and very long, for he was hardly yet awake. In reply to inquiries for his wife and child, he has been informed that they are sick at a relative's house. With regard to his wounds, he has been told he received them in a fall while walking in his sleep. All must dread for him the terrible hour when he is to learn his most unutterable wo, and pray that he may have strength to endure
